

In Erie County, more than 1,500 cases of elder abuse are reported each year — and many more go unreported. Abusers can include family members, spouses, intimate partners, ex-partners, friends, neighbors, or caretakers. The most common types of abuse are: PHYSICAL ABUSE, EMOTIONAL ABUSE, PSYCHOLOGICAL ABUSE, SEXUAL ABUSE, FINANCIAL EXPLOITATION, AND NEGLECT.

Train the Trainer: Elder Abuse and Mistreatment

This FREE ½ day training will provide an overview of the different forms of elder abuse and neglect, warning signs of abuse, domestic violence later in life as well as information on referrals and interventions. Participants will leave with information and resources to share with co-workers and agencies to build knowledge and awareness of elder mistreatment.

Presenters: Gavin Kasper, Erie County Protective Services for Adults; Christina Potempa, MSW, Family Justice Center; Brian Mohr, Erie County Sheriff's Department, Domestic Violence Unit

Who Should Attend This Training? Counselors, social workers, nursing home staff, care-takers, healthcare aides, bankers, law enforcement, students, block clubs, clergy, medical professionals, attorneys, caseworkers, volunteers, and others who work with seniors, care-takers, or victims of DV
